Failure of the Bulls to Sustain Any Advance in Wheat.

TRADING AT LOWER PRICES.

A Better Demand For Corn at Higher Prices-Oats Also Appreciate in Value, But Lightly Traded In.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET. CHICAGO, July 13 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE. |- The situation in brief to-day was corn and oats selling at higher prices because they are regarded as cheap-too cheap at the present figures-and wheat selling down, not because it is not too cheap, but because there is too much of it, and because it is partly of a questionable quality. There were not outside advices to greatly effect grains in any way. The lines are pretty well defined between the bulls and bears, and the fight from now on promises to be on the merits of the stuff traded in. The failure of the bulls to sustain any advance on wheat thus far this week, although it took two or three little spurts, left the market to the bears to-day. Prices at the opening were steady for leading futures and &c under for October and December. The volume of trading during the early part of Ithe day was perhaps greater than on yesterday, but at lower prices. August sold from 72% c down to 71% c, then up to 72%c and later steadled about the 72c point. September followed on an exactly similar line, beginning at 7414c, selling at 735/c and steadying at 74c. October opened 3/c under the close of Tuesday, sold as low as 75 4c, and became firm at 75%c. December sold between 78%c and 79c, with 78%c for a resting place.

Corn opened steady and was in good speculative demand without any apparent reason beyond the limited amount in store and the belief that August corn is plenty cheap at 36c. A gradual advance in prices set in early. While wheat dropped 1/2c corn sold up in all futures. The fact that corn independently moved up several points set the crowd talk moved up several points set the crowd talking and there were predictions that it would climb to the point held in June—near 40c. July sold from 35%c to 35%c. August from 36c to 36%c. September from 37 to 37%c, closing at 37%c. October closed at 37%c and May at 39%c. October closed at 37%c and May at 39%c. Oats were traded in sparingly, but at better prices. The feature of the market was the selling of July at %c premium over August. Oats acted in apparent sympathy with corn.

selling of July at ½c premium over August. Oats acted in apparent sympathy with corn, and while the increase in price was small, it occurred on persistent buying by those who thought grain cheap at the present prices. July sold from 25½c to 25½c. May sold from 30½c to 30%c. Short ribs were active, but an unsettled feeling prevailed. The impression was that trade in all articles of provisions would improve in the near future and that the dullest season has passed. The good consumptive demand is having its effect and the shorts were anxious to cover and everybody apparently wanted to get a few short ribs. The competition among buyers was brisk, and competition among buyers was brisk, and the offerings being light, prices advanced 30 @35c. Armour sold on the bulge and a re-action of 25c followed, but the market closed action of 25c followed, but the market closed steady and 12½c higher than yesterday. August opened at $8.02½, sold to $8.32½, but closed at $8.07½. January sold at $6.00æ6.10. Lard was quiet but steadler at $6.57½@6.65, but closed at $6.57½, with November at $6.60. Mess pork received fair attention and the year sold at $11.40@12.00 and closed at $11.50.

FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, July 13 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE. |-STOCKS-The stock market continues dull and heavy and a period of liquidation has taken possession of nearly everybody, and everybody appears anxious to sell. The large traders - White, Cammack, Durand and Bateman-are absent from the city and do not think the market worth bothering about. The weak holders who have tailed on to the Baltimore & Ohio deal, have become discouraged at the failure of the Ives and Staynor party to carry out their intention, and the result was painfully vistble in the manner in which stocks declined. Reading had the lead and broke 1% points, Lackawanna 1 point. The Grangers and trunk lines were also heavy and dropped M@1 point. The selling of the above stocks brought out others, and the market was well filled all the morning. The short interest was largely increased, but the fact that the bulls were completely demoralized while the bears were encouraged by their recent success and showed a bold front, made it uncomfortably warm for the weak holders. The Baltimore & Ohlo deal is in every trader's mouth and is the chief topic of conversation. Gould is master of the situation, as Ives and Staynor are unable to carry the deal through without Gould's assistance. They offered the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph for $3,500,-000, but he considered the sum too large, and as Ives was unable to show satisfactory authority to transfer the property, and until he can do so, there is no probability of anything coming out of the negotiations. Gould, in an interview, said that he found that most of the Western Union directors were not inclined to buy opposition lines at any price, and added; "I do not think we shall lose anything by waiting a while before we buy out opposition lines. I am satisfied we can get them whenever we please." The failure of the Baltimore & Ohio deal caused a collapse in Cincipuati, Hamilton & Dayton, in which the Ives and Staynor party are the head center. A short time ago it sold at 152, but to-day offers were made at 110, with 75 the best bid. Ives, when asked to explain 70... 966 $8.20 the cause of the drop, remarked that he had 18...1166 3.50 bothing to say, and added: "If the people 54...1116 8.30 wish to sell the stock they can do it." The slump in Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton created the impression that the rising young financiers had more on their backs than they could carry, and were at the tender mercles of the bears. The conditions of affairs noted above were not at all favorable to higher prices, and the last hour witnessed free selling along the general list, and further declines of 1/6% per cent were recorded. A slight rally occurred on a few stocks, but the majority closed at inside figures and established net declines of \(\lambda(a2) \lambda \) points, Union Pacific showing the greatest loss. The total sales were 278,281 shares, against 86,500 shares yesterday. GOVERNMENTS-Government bonds were
